Hi, I'm Alexander Lislelid, a front-end development student with a strong interest in creating clean, responsive, and accessible websites using HTML, CSS, and JavaScript.

Through my studies and personal projects, I've gained hands-on experience building modern user interfaces with a focus on structure, usability, and performance. I enjoy working with semantic HTML, modular CSS, and structured JavaScript, and I'm comfortable using tools such as Git, VS Code, and Figma as part of my workflow.

This portfolio showcases selected projects developed during my studies at Noroff, including responsive websites and interactive applications. Each project reflects my growth as a developer and my attention to both code quality and user experience.

I'm motivated, detail-oriented, and eager to continue learning. I'm currently seeking opportunities where I can contribute as a junior front-end developer and further develop my skills in a professional environment.

Kind regards,

Alexander Lislelid
